Spoken by MR. M I L W A R D.

*Y*O<sup>U</sup>, who supreme o'er ev'ry work of wit,
In judgement here unaw'd, unbiass'd fit,
The palatines and guardians of the pit ;
*I*f to your minds this merely-modern play,
No useful sense, no gen'rous warmth convey ;
*I*f fustian here, thro' each unmat'r al scene,
Instrain'd conceits found high, and nothing mean ;
*I*f lofty dulness for your vengeance call ;
Like Elmerick judge, and let the guilty fall.
*B*ut if simplicity, with force and fire,
Unlabour'd thoughts and artless swords inspire ;
*I*f, like the action which these scenes relate,
The whole appear irregularly great ;
*I*f master strokes the nobler passions move,
Then, like the king, acquit us, and approve.
