

Landesbibliothek Oldenburg

Digitalisierung von Drucken

A Collection Of Poems In Six Volumes. By Several Hands

Dodsley, Robert

London, 1758

Index of the Fifth Volume.

urn:nbn:de:gbv:45:1-1957

INDEX to the Fifth Volume.

R URAL Elegance: An Ode, 1750	Page	1
Inscription near a Sheep-cote	13
Nancy of the Vale. A Ballad	16
Ode to Indolence, 1750	19
Ode to Health, 1730	21
To a Lady of Quality, fitting up her Library, 1738	24
Upon a Visit to the same in Winter, 1748	26
An irregular Ode after Sickness, 1749	28
Anacreontick, 1738	33
Ode. Written 1739	34
The Dying Kid	36
Love Songs, and lighter Pieces, written between the Year 1737 and 1743
Song 1.	38
2. The Landskip	ib.
3.	39
4. The Sky-Lark	40
5.	ib.
6. The Attribute of Venus	41
The Rape of the Trap, a Ballad; written at College 1736	42
A Simile	45
The Ceremonial	46
The Beau to the Virtuoso	47
Verfes to a Friend	49
Written at an Inn on a particular Occasion	51
The Price of an Equipage	52
A Ballad	53
The Extent of Cookery	54
The Progress of Advice. A common Case	55
Slender's Ghost	56
Upon Riddles	57
Verfes to a Writer of Riddles	58
To * * * *	60
Song	61
To Lady Fane on her Grotto at Basilden, 1746	62
The Invisible	ib.
The Pepper-box and Salt-seller. A Fable	63
Written near Bath, 1755	67
Verfes to William Shenstone, Esq; on receiving a Gift Pocket-Book, 1751	70

The Swallows. Written September, 1748	72
Part II. Written April, 1749	75
Valentine's Day	77
The Scavengers. A Town Eclogue. In the Manner of Swift	78
Hamlet's Soliloquy, imitated	82
Transcrib'd from the Rev. Mr. Pixel's Parsonage Garden near Birmingham, 1757	83
Malvern Spa, 1757. Inscribed to Dr. Wall	84
Some Reflections upon hearing the Bell toll for the Death of a Friend	87
The Robin: An Elegy. Written at the close of Autumn, 1756	90
An Epitaph	92
Ut Piſtura Poëſis	93
Vacuna	95
On J. W. ranging Pamphlets	98
Epithalamium	102
To a Gentleman, on the Birth-day of his first Son	104
On two Friends born on the same Day	105
A Winter Thought	107
Song	110
Verſes ſpoken at Weſtminſter School	111
A Letter to Sir Robert Walpole	117
An Epistle from the Elector of Bavaria, to the French King, after the Battle of Ramillies	119
To the Duke of Marlborough	130
An Ode on Miſs Harriet Hanbury at ſix Years old	132
A Song upon Miſs Harriet Hanbury, addreſſ'd to the Rev. Mr. Birt	134
To Mr. Garnier and Mr. Pearce of Bath. A grateful Ode, in return for the extraordinary Kindneſs and Humanity they ſhew'd to me and my eldeſt Daughter, now Lady Eſſex, 1753	136
Ode to Death. Translated from the French of the King of Pruſſia	138
The Hymns of Dionyſius: Translated from the Greek	143
A Satire in the Manner of Perſius, in a Dialogue between Atticus and Eugenio	147

To Mrs. Bindon at Bath	_____	_____	156
Mrs. Bindon's Answer	_____	_____	157
Sir Charles's Reply	_____	_____	ibid.
To a Lady, who sent Compliments to a Clergyman upon the Ten of Hearts	_____	_____	158
The Grotto	_____	_____	159
The Bee, the Ant, and the Sparrow: A Fable	_____	_____	169
Ode on a Storm	_____	_____	174
Isaiah xxxiv.	_____	_____	177
Isaiah xxxv.	_____	_____	183
Woodstock Park. A Poem	_____	_____	188
A Fit of the Spleen. In Imitation of Shakespear	_____	_____	202
Hymn to Miss Laurence, in the Pump-Room. BATH, 1753	_____	_____	204
A Letter to Corinna from a Captain in Country Quarters	_____	_____	210
A Tale	_____	_____	213
The Wish	_____	_____	219
The Bears and Bees. A Fable	_____	_____	221
A Fragment	_____	_____	222
The Camelion: A Fable after Monsieur de la Motte	_____	_____	223
Immortality: or, the Consolation of Human Life. A Monody	_____	_____	226
To the Memory of a Gentleman, who died on his Travels to Rome	_____	_____	239
Captain T—— of Battereau's Regiment in the Isle of Skie to Captain P—— at Fort Augustus	_____	_____	240
To Mr. J. H. at the Temple, occasioned by a Translation of an Epistle of Horace, 1730	_____	_____	244
To the Rev. Mr. J. S. 1731	_____	_____	248
Answer to the foregoing, 1731	_____	_____	251
Another	_____	_____	253
Cupid and Chloe	_____	_____	254
The Poet to his false Mistress	_____	_____	256
On Mr. * * *, Schoolmaster at * * *	_____	_____	257
KAMBROMYOMAXIA: or the Mouse-Trap; being a Translation of Mr. Holdsworth's Muscipula, 1730	_____	_____	258
Verses under the Prints of Mr. Hogarth's Rake's Progress, 1735	_____	_____	269

On the Friendship of two young Ladies, 1730	—	275
Chloe's unknown Likeness, 1738	—	276
The Bird of Passage, 1749	—	277
Verses said to be fixed on the Gate of the Louvre at Paris, 1751	—	279
Chloe resolved, A Ballad	—	280
Epilogue to Shakespear's first Part of King Henry IV.	—	281
Prologue to Comus	—	283
Epigrams from Martial	—	285
A very gallant Copy of Verses, (but somewhat silly) upon the Ladies, and their fine Cloaths at a Ball	—	288
Another on the same Subject, written with more Judgment, but fewer good Manners	—	289
The Brewer's Coachman	—	290
Female Caution	—	291
Orthodox Advice	—	292
Hull Ale	—	293
Epigram	—	294
Another	—	295
The Mistake	—	ibid.
A Fragment of Chaucer	—	296
Upon an Alcove, now at Parson's Green	—	ibid.
Plain Truth	—	302
Ode to Venus, from her Votaries of the Street	—	305
An Epigram	—	306
The Poet's Importance	—	307
To Polly Laurence, quitting the Pump. Bath, Jan. 1756		308
Ode, to a Lady in London	—	309
Ode to Spring	—	311
Ode to Cynthia	—	312
Ode to a Thrush	—	313
Elegy	—	314
A Poem to the Memory of Thomas, late Marquis of Wharton, Lord Privy Seal	—	316
Paraphrase on a French Song	—	323
The Tomb of Shakespear. A Vision	—	325