

Landesbibliothek Oldenburg

Digitalisierung von Drucken

The History Of Hindostan; From The Earliest Account Of Time, To The Death Of Akbar; Translated From The Persian Of Mahummud Casim Ferishta Of Delhi

Together With A Dissertation Concerning the Religion and Philosophy of the Brahmins ; With An Appendix, Containing the History of the Mogul Empire, from its Decline in the Reign of Mahummud Shaw, to the present Times ; In Two Volumes

Dow, Alexander

London, 1772

Index.

urn:nbn:de:gbv:45:1-2198

I N D E X.

- ABA Chan* slain by Shere, 29.
Abdalla, commands in Guzerat, 49. Rewarded for his services, 140. Quashes an insurrection in Behâr, 160. Dismissed from his government, 165.
Abdalla, King of Bueharia, 392.
Achemâd-ul-Dowlat, raised to the vizarit, 33. His wife and able administration, 35.
Alicâd Chan, 33. His death and character, 55.
Adil Shaw, sues for peace, 142. Defeated by Aurengzêbe, 209.
Afgans rebel, 36. Again rebel, and are repulsed, 134. Rebel, 389. Defeated, 390.
Agriculture encouraged, 35.
Akbar, his great abilities, 1. His empire not so extensive as that of the Patans, 2. His death, 4.
Ali Murdân, delivers up Candahâr, 160. Rewarded, 161. Promoted, 167. Made governor of Cashmire, 174. Invades Buduckshân, 183. His death and character, 206.
Aliverdi, his insolence, 175.
Alla (Seif), his unhappy fate, 106.
Alum (Chan) returns from Persia, 58.
Amâr Singh, his rashness and death, 179.
Ameid reduces Chittagong, 372.
Amin (Mahommed), the son of Jumla, 203. Released by the Prince Mahommed, ibid. His insolence to Aurengzêbe, 383. Sent against the Afgans, 391.
Arabian system of philosophy, 2.
Arfehan Aga, the Turkish ambassador, 169.
Asiph Jah, 33. His daughter married to Shaw Jehan, 53. Made Vîsier, 56. Opposes coming to battle, 67. Crosses the Gelum, 88. Resolves to release the emperor, 89. Defeated by Mohâbet, 90. Taken prisoner, 91. His conference, 95. and schemes with Mohâbet, 96. Raises Dawir Buxsh to the throne, 107. Defeats Shariâr, 108. Proclaims Shaw Jehân, 107. Continued in the vizarit, 114. Arrives at Agra, 115. In Vol. III.
 high favour, 116. Commands the army, 136. Defeats Lodi, ibid. Demands him of the Nizam, 137. Lays waste the Decan, 142. His death, 170. His character, 172. His family, 173.
Affamites, invade Bengal, 162. Their country reduced, 163.
Attalla Chan killed, 90.
Azim Chan, opposes Selim, 3. Sent to Malava, 5. Abets a conspiracy, 6. Proposes to assassinate the emperor, 7. Disgrace, 45. He is released, 54. Commands an army under his grandson, 71.
 ———, governor of Guzerat, 169. Removed, but pardoned, 170.
Aziz, his valour, 187. Defeated by Aurengzêbe, 188.
Azmud, the son of Lodi, his spirit, 124. His gallant behaviour, and death, 127.
Aurengzêbe, born, 57. Delivered as an hostage to Jehangire, 79. Presented to his father, 115. His age at his father's accession, 116. Sent to Bundela, 146. In high favour, 149. Accompanies his father to the Decan, 157. Marries the daughter of Shaw Nawâz, 159. Jealous of the influence of Dara, 165. Removed from the Decan, 181. Sent to Guzerat, 182. Sent to command against the Usbecs, 187. whom he totally overthrows, 188. Besieges Candahâr in vain, 194. Defeats the Persians, 195. Sends Jumla to court, 205. Joins Jumla, 207. Takes Bider, 208. Defeats Adil Shaw, 209. His plans with Jumla, 210. His character, 218. Hears of his father's illness, 222. Embraces Morâd's proposals, 223. Gains over Jumla, 224. Marches from Aurungabad, 225. His management of Morâd, 226. Arrives at the Nirbidda, ibid. Joined by Morâd, 227. Defeats the Maraja, 228. Remains at Ugein, 229.
 3 H Turns

I N D E X.

Turns the rear of Dara's army, 232. His order of battle, 233. His resolution, 237. Gains the battle, 238. His great address, 242. Corrupts the army of Solimân, 243. Arrives before Agra, 245. Sends a message to his father, 246. His conference with his sister, ibid. His duplicity and address, 247. His schemes, 249. Seizes his father, 251. Writes to him, 252. Deceives Morâd, 253. Prepares to pursue Dara, 254. His narrow escape, 255. He seizes Morâd, 256. Quells the army, 257. Advances to Delhi, 258. and mounts the throne, 259. Pursues Dara, 274. Arrives on the Suttulaz, 275. How he receives the adherents of his brother, 277. Marches to Moulân, 278. Cause of his return, 279. Duplicity toward Suja, 280. His preparations against Suja, 281. Marches down along the Jumna, 282. Offers battle, 283. Betrayed by the Maraja, 284. His resolution, 285. Obtains the victory, 286. His speech to the nobles, 287. Arrives at Agra, 289. Marches against Dara, 297. Offers battle, 298. His stratagem to deceive Dara, 299. Overthrows that prince, 302. Sends a force in pursuit of him, 305. Calls a council concerning Dara, 309. Condemns him to death, 312. His behaviour on seeing his brother's head, 315. Sends an insidious letter to his son Mahommed, 323. Imprisons him, 326. His prudent administration, 334. Suspects his second son, 336. Expedient against Solimân, 337. His behaviour to that prince, 338. Receives an embassy from Persia, 339. His humanity, 341. His sickness, 345. Consternation of the people thereupon, 346. His anxiety, 347. His resolute behaviour, 348. He recovers, ibid. His demands on his father, 349. His health perfectly restored, 353. His progress to Cashmire, 354. His jealousy of Jumla, 357. Endeavours to appease Shaw Abas II. 377. Suspects the Persians in his service, 379. His irresolution, 380. Sends for his sister Jehanâra, 381. Reconciled with the Persians, 382. He takes the field, 383. Alarmed, 387. Rewards Dilêre, 388. His genius, 394. Attention to justice, 395. His contempt of pomp and flattery, ibid. Plainness of dress, and austerities, 396. His justice and clemency, 397. His public buildings, and encouragement of letters, 398. His courage, learning, and manly exercises, 399. His continence, 400. Amusements, 401. His business in the morning, 402. noon and evening, 403.

B

Babâder Shaw rebels in Guzerat, 48.
Bakir, his successful invasion of Golconda, 132.
Bandor assassinates Chusero, 63.
Baa Singh succeeds his father, 46.
Bengal, disturbances in, 19.
Bickermâjit, sent into the mountains of Sewalic, 57. Killed, 69.
Bocharas taken, 112. Magnificent reception of its king, 392.
Bechari (Ferid), his spirited resolution, 4. Sent in pursuit of Chusero, 10. Defeats that prince, 11. Disabled by a stroke of the palsy, 33.
Bundela, its Raja revolts, 119.

C

Calamities, 141.
Candahâr, besieged, 17. Lost to the empire, 79. Delivered up by Ali Murdân, 160.
Casim takes Chusero, 15.
 — governor of Bengal, takes Hugley, 145.
Chaja Aiâsi, his distress in the desert, 20. Arrives at Lahore, 21. Promoted, 22. Made high-treasurer, ibid. Made viceroy, 33.
Channa-zâd defeats the Usbecs, 80.
Chan Chavan, accompanies Purvez, 40. Disgraced, 41. Intrigues with the enemy, 52. Besieged in Brampour, 59. His death, 98. Character, 99.
Characters of the natives of Asia strongly marked, 2.
Chittagong reduced, 372.
Churram (prince), 18. Sent to command the army in the Decan, 43. Forces the Rana to a peace, 44. In great favour, ibid. Returns to court, 45. Carries every thing before him, 46. All-powerful in the affairs of the state, 48. His name changed to Shaw Jehân, 51.
Chusero (prince), 3. His party struck with a panic, 4. Received into favour, 5. Meditates to rebel, 6. Refuses to assassinate his father, 7. His plot discovered, ibid. Flies from

I N D E X.

- from Agra, 8. Plunders the country, 9. Pillages the suburbs of Delhi, 10. Marches toward Lahore, 11. Defeat and flight, 12. He is deserted by his adherents, 13. In great distress, 14. He is taken and brought to his father, 15. His behaviour before him, 16. Closely confined, 18. Released, 53. Delivered up to Shaw Jehân, 60. His character, 61. Assassination, 62. Manner of it, 63.
- Cipper-Sheks*, accompanies his father Dara, 304. Bound and dragged from his father, 313. Sent prisoner to Gualiar, 314.
- Coolies* defeated, 49.
- Cruelty* (excuse for), 114.
- Cuttub* rebels in Behâr, 38. Killed with a brick-bat, 39.
- Cuttub*, king of Tellingana, 201. Imprisons the son of Jumla, 203. Offers terms to the prince Mahommed, 203. Defeated, 204.
- Cuttub Chan* quells a rebellion in Guzerat, 355.
- D
- Dara*, 79. Presented by Asiph Jâh to his father, 115. His age at his father's accession, 116. Marries the daughter of Purvez, 148. Jealous of his brothers, 150. Promoted, 164. Marches against the Persians, 175. Dangerous sickness, 179. Speech against Aurungzêbe, 181. His great jealousy of that prince, 198. Unsuccessful against Candahâr, 199. Appointed to succeed to the throne, 200. Possesses part of the Imperial power, 202. Assumes the government, 210. His violence, 211. Sends his father to Agra, 212. Turns Jumla out of his office, 213. His filial piety, 214. Carries all before him, ibid. His character, 216. His great preparations, 230. Marches against Aurungzêbe and Morâd, 231. Charge given him by his father, 232. His order of battle, 233. His bravery, 235. By an accident, 236. is overthrown by Aurungzêbe, 237. How received by his father, 240. His flight to Delhi, 241. Raises forces, 242. Flies to Lahore, 258. His irresolution, 273. Retreat from the Bea, 274. Hesitates about giving battle, 275. He flies from Lahore, 276. Flies to Bicker, 290. Meditates to retire to Persia, 291. Arrives at Tatta, 292. His distress in the desert, ibid. Arrives at Guzerat, 293. Gains over the governor, 294. Marches toward Agra, ibid. Turns toward the dominions of the Maraja, 295. who deserts his cause, 296. He fortifies himself at Ajmere, 297. Insulted in his lines, 298. Deceived by Aurungzêbe, 299. Totally defeated, 302. His misfortunes, 303. Uncommon distress, 304. Arrives at Tatta, 305. Prepares to fly to Persia, 306. Detained by his regard for the Sultana, 307. Throws himself upon Jehan, ibid. His grief for the death of the Sultana, 308. Betrayed and delivered to the enemy, 309. Carried with ignominy through Delhi, 310. Humanity of the people for him, 311. His manly behaviour, ibid. Circumstances previous to his murder, 313. Assassinated, 314: Reflections on his death, ibid. His head brought to Aurungzêbe, 315.
- Dawir Buxsh*, the son of Chusero, 71. Raised to the throne, 107. A temporary emperor, 108. Deposed and murdered, 109.
- Debere*, deceives Dara, 300. His valour, 301.
- Decan*, a small part only conquered, 2. Invaded by Shaw Jehân, 131. Its princes sue for peace, 142. Invaded by Shaw Jehân, 156. Submits, 158.
- Dilêre*, invades Bijapour, 385. Suspects the prince Shaw Allum, 386. Flies from him, 387.
- Diria* defeats the Nizam, 122.
- Dowlatabâd* (the city of), taken, 137. The citadel taken by Mohâbet, 148.
- E
- Eder* defeated by Abdalla, 49.
- Eman Kulli*, 112.
- Erâdit*, receives Shaw Jehân, 130. In danger of a defeat, 134. Removed from the command of the army, 135. Takes Dowlatabâd, 137.
- Etabar* defends Agra against Shaw Jehân, 65.
- Executions* (a dreadful kind of), 16.
- F
- Fakiers* (remarkable insurrection of), 360. Quelled, 361.
- Famine*, 340.
- Fedai Chan*, his gallant resolution, 90.

I N D E X.

- Ferid*. See Bochari.
Perse seizes Shariâr, 108.
- G
- Ghazi* raises the siege of Candahâr, 17.
Government, becomes settled and uniform under Akbar, 1. Its effects on the manners of the Indians, 2. That of the Tartar Moguls, 113.
- H
- Hakim* advises the murder of Dara, 312.
Hidjâr Singh revolts, 119. Defeated, and flies, 120. Taken and pardoned, 121. Revolts, 145. His misfortunes and bravery, 146. His death, ibid.
Houfs of Timur, extent of their dominions, 3. Their revenue, 2. Their forces, 3.
Hugley, taken by assault, 145.
Huffin Beg, joins Chusero, 8. His advice to that prince, 12. Attends him in his flight, 13. Taken, 15. Put to death, 16.
Huffein (Abdul), obtains a victory in Malava, 59. Attacks Lodi, 126.
Huffein, the son of Lodi, 127.
- J
- Jâm* (Raja) receives Dara hospitably, 304.
Ibrahim defeated and slain, 73.
Jehân (Chân), his humanity, 309.
Jehânâra (the princess), her character, 116. Meets with an accident, 179. Her conference with Aurungzêbe, 246. Deceived by that prince, 247. Sent for by Aurungzêbe to appease the Persians, 381.
Jehangire, mounts the throne, 5. Confirms all the laws of his father, 6. Pursues his son Chusero, 10. His behaviour to him when taken, 16. Marches to Cabul, 17. Perplexed, 18. His designs against Shere Afkun, 24. Refuses to see Mher-ul-Niffa, 31. He is captivated by her charms, 32. Marries her, ibid. Changes her name into Noor-Mâhil, 33. Her power over him, 34. His indolence, 35. Natural impatience, 41. Removes to Ajmere, 42. A whim, 44. Pays extravagant honours to Moin-ul-Dien, 47. His magnificence, 48. His reception of the English ambassador, ibid. Leaves Ajmere, 52. Releases prince Chusero, 53. Arrives at Mando, 54. Marches into Guzerat, ibid. Returns to Agra, ibid. Makes a progress to Cashmere, 57. His public works, 58. Returns to Lahore, 59. Enraged at the murder of Chusero, 63. Declares Shaw Jehân a rebel, 66. His distress, 67. His dream, ibid. Defeats Shaw Jehân, 69. Suspects Mohâbet, 81. Calls him to court, 84. Surprised and taken in his tent by that officer, 86. His behaviour on the occasion, 87. His great danger, 90. Marches toward Cabul, 91. Refuses to put Mohâbet to death, 94. Returns to Lahore, 95. Declines in his health, 100. His death, 101. Character, 102. Anecdotes of his private life, ibid. Scheme of establishing a new religion, 103. His violence, 104. Severe justice, 105. His children, 110.
Jibon, 306. Receives Dara, 307. Betrays him, 308. Delivers him up to the enemy, 309. Rewarded by Aurungzêbe, 311. Slain by the people, 312.
Jislam, governor of Bengal, 37. Reduces Assâm, 162. Removed from his government, 165.
Jumla (Mahommed), his rise and character, 201. His influence with Aurungzêbe, 203. Made vîsîr by Shaw Jehân, 205. Sent to the Decan, 207. Concerts measures with Aurungzêbe, 210. Returns to Agra, ibid. Turned out of his office, 213. Gained by Aurungzêbe, 224. Imprisoned, 225. Arrives at court, 278. His resolution, 285. Sent in pursuit of Suja, 286. Turns his rear, 317. Attacks Suja in his lines, 318. Quashes a mutiny, 320. His speech to the army, 321. Defeats Suja, 322. Receives the prince Mahommed, 325. Drives Suja from Bengal, 327. He invades Assâm, 357. which he reduces, 358. His retreat, death, and character, 359.
Justice, remarkable instance of, 105, 106.
- K
- Kilburga* taken by Aurungzêbe, 209.
Koka slain by Shere Afkun, 29.
- L
- Laël* defeated by Abdalla, 49.
Lescâr, what, 42.

Lodi

INDEX.

Lodi (Chan Jehân), accompanies prince Purvêz, 40. Commands the army in the Decan, 98. Averse to Shaw Jehân, 109. Submits, 117. Affronted at court, 122. Shuts himself up in his house, 124. His distress, 125. Gallant behaviour and flight, 126. Attacked at the Chunbul, 127. Escapes, 128. Forms a confederacy in the Decan, 131. Commands their forces, 133. Disappointed in his views, 135. Defeated, 136. His flight, 137. Misfortunes and death, 138. His character, 139.

M

Mahommed (prince), the son of Aurungzêbe, 203. Takes Hydrabad, 204. Defeats the king of Golconda, ibid. Returns to Brampour, 205. Employed by his father, 249. to seize the person of Shaw Jehân, 250. Which he effects, 251. Rejects the offer of the empire, ibid. Refused admission to his grandfather, 264. Made governor of Moultañ, 280. Joins his father, 281. His rashness, 282. Pursues Suja, 286. Joined by Jumla, 317. Deserts to Suja, 319. Marries that prince's daughter, 320. His confidence, 322. His father's insidious letter to him, 323. Suspected and dismissed by Suja, 324. He is seized, 325. and imprisoned, 326. His death and character, 363.

Malleck Amber, at the head of the rebels, 50. His boldness, 51.

Man Singh, favours Chusero, 3. Abets a conspiracy, 6. His death, 45. Succeeded by his son, 46.

Maraja rebels, 200. Reduced, 201. Favours Dara, 214. Opposes Aurungzêbe at the Nirbidda, 226. His folly and defeat, 227. Masculine behaviour of his wife, 228. Offended at Aurungzêbe, 277. His treachery, 284. Plunders the baggage, 285. Carries a false report to Agra, 288. Proposes to join Dara, 295. But is gained by Aurungzêbe, 296. Sent to aid Shaista, 343. His plot to assassinate that general, 344. Discontented, 369.

Mauzim (Mahommed the son of Aurungzêbe), 324. Employed by his father in a stratagem, 325.

Mber-ul-Nissa, her accomplishments and beauty, 22. Captivates the prince Selim, 23.

Married to Shere Afkun, ibid. Her husband slain, 29. She is brought to court, 30. Denied admittance to the emperor, 31. Her ingenuity, ibid. She captivates the emperor, 32. Married by Jehangire, ibid. Her name changed to Noor-Mâhil, 33. Advancement of her relations, 34. Her magnificence, 48. Power over the emperor, 53. Her name changed to Noor-Jehân, ibid. Builds a magnificent monument for her father, 55. Her flight from Mohâbet, 88. Her intrepid conduct, 89. Seized by Mohâbet, 91. Condemned to death, ibid. But pardoned, 92. Her violence against Mohâbet, 95. Obliges him to fly, 95. Procures a will in favour of Shariâr, 107. Confined by her brother, 108. Death and character, 184.

Mohâbet, commands the army in the Decan, 41. Joins the emperor against Shaw Jehân, 68. Commands the army under Purvêz, 70. Defeats Shaw Jehân, 72. Marches toward Bengal, 75. Totally defeats Shaw Jehân, 76. Envied and suspected, 81. Accused of treason, 82. His enemies at court, 83. Commanded to appear in the presence, 84. His messenger grossly affronted, 85. He surprises the emperor in his tent, 86. Carries him to his own camp, 87. Cuts off Sujait for his insolence, 88. Carries the emperor to his camp, 89. Defeats the visier, 90. and takes him prisoner, 91. Seizes and condemns to death the empress, ibid. Pardons her, 92. Manages the empire, ibid. In danger at Cabul, 93. Relinquishes his power, 94. Obligated to fly, 95. His conference with the visier, 96. Pardoned, 97. Resides with the Rana, 98. Joins Shaw Jehân, 108. Commands in the Decan, 117. Sent against the Usbecs, 119. and into Bundela, 120. His generous conduct to the Raja, 121. Deprived of the command of the army, 122. Sent to the Decan, 148. Takes Dowlatabâd, 149. Quarrels with prince Suja, ibid. His death and character, 152. Anecdotes of his private life, 153.

Mohâbet (the younger), takes Kilburga, 209. Sent to Guzerat, 350.

Mirâd, emperor of the Ottomans, 167.

Morâd (prince), delivered as an hostage to Jehangire, 79. Presented to his father, 115. His age at his father's accession, 116. Distinguishes himself, 170. Marries the daughter ter of Shaw Nawáz, 175. Sent with an army against the Usbecs, 185. And through his impatience disgraced, 186. Sent to the Decan, 193. Removed, on account of his violence, from that government, 196. His character, 219. Proposals to Aurungzêbe, 223. Deceived by him, 226. Commands in the center of battle, 234. His great bravery, 236. Deceived by Aurungzêbe, 253. His counter-plot miscarries, 254. He is again deceived, 255. Seized by his brother, 256. Sent prisoner to Agra, 257. His wife persuades her father, 293. to join Dara, 294.

I N D E X.

Mukirrib Chan, his affection for his sovereign, 88.

Mumtâza Zemâni, the favourite Sultana, dies, 141.

N

Nadili Midâni, a gallant officer, 26.

Nadira, the daughter of Purvêz, married to Dara, 148. Her misfortunes, 303. Overwhelmed with distress and sickness, 306. Her fortitude, ibid. Her death, 307.

Narsi sent by Asiph to Mohâbet, 108.

Nazir commissioned to murder Dara, 312.

Nizam proposes terms, 137.

Noor-Jebân. Vide Mher-ul-Nissa.

Noor-Mâbil. Vide Mher-ul-Nissa.

P

Peace between India and Persia, 17. Another pacification, 163. Universal peace, 362. Peace with Persia, 384. A general peace, 391.

Perist, murders many of the imperial family, 110. Affronts Lodi in the presence, 124. Killed by Lodi's son, 127.

Persia (origin of the quarrel with), 374.

Persians invest Candahâr, 16.

Piâra Bani, the wife of Suja, 331. Her resolution and melancholy death, 332.

Pomp of the court of India, 2.

Portuguese, complaints against them, 144. Dastardly behaviour at Hugley, 145.

Purvêz (prince), 18. Sent against the Rana, 39. His mildness and inexperience, 40. Recalled, 41. Politeness to the English ambassador, 46. Resides at Brampour, 50. Commands the army, ibid. Superfeded by the prince Churram, 51. Pursues Shaw Jehân, 70. Defeats Shaw Jehân at the Nirbidda, 72. Totally defeats him in Bengal, 76. His insensibility and death, 97. His character, 98.

R

Rahim, taken prisoner, 15. Put to death, 16.

Rahim (Abdul) accompanies prince Purvêz, 40.

Raja-Mâbil, destroyed by fire, 166.

Rana rebels, 39. Sues for peace, 43. Breaks the treaty, 50.

Reflections on the government of the Moguls, 113. On despotism, 177. On the cause of the civil war, 215. On the defeat of Dara, 238. On Aurungzêbe's mounting the throne, 260. On the reign and character of Shaw Jehân, 266. On the art of Aurungzêbe, 269. On the death of Dara, 314. On the death of Suja, 332. On the conduct of Aurungzêbe, 333.

Rholas (new), taken, 91.

Rodriguez refuses aid to Shaw Jehân, 144.

Roe (Sir Thomas), arrives at Brampour, 46.

How received by Purvêz, 47. Arrives at Ajmere, 48. His success at court, 54.

Roshinâra (the princess), her character, 116.

Rustum Suffavi carries on the Persian war, 66.

S

Sadulla, made visier, 183. Settles the affairs of Balick, 186. His death, 202.

Sadâbâsh totally defeated, 161.

Sefi, his feeble reign over Persia, 160. Marches an army toward Candahâr, 161. Makes peace with Shaw Jehân, 163. Proposes to invade India, 174. His death, 175.

Sefi commissioned to murder Dara, 312.

Selim, intrigues against him, 3. Mounts the throne, 4. Assumes the name of Jehangire, 5. Captivated by Mher-ul-Nissa, 23.

Sewaji, his depredations, 342. War with him, 363. His strange conduct, 367. Insolence to Aurungzêbe, ibid. His flight, 368.

Shajsta Chan, commands an army in the Decan, 131. The eldest son of Asiph Jâh, 173. Second in command before Hyderabad, 205.

I N D E X.

- Writes a letter to Aurungzebe, 233. Betrays Dara, 240. Condemned to death, 243. Rescued, 244. His panic, 288. Invades Malabar, 342. A plot to assassinate him, 344. Made governor of Bengal, 370. Gains over the Portuguese, 371. Reduces Chittagong, 372.
- Shaw Abas I.* 17. A great prince, 111. Surprises Candahar, 64. His death and character, 129.
- Shaw Abas II.* his accession to the throne of Persia, 193. Takes Candahar, 194. Enraged against Aurungzebe, 376. His death and character, 384.
- Shaw Alum* (the prince), his art, 335. Suspected by his father, 336. Declared heir of the empire, 340. He intrigues for the throne, 346. Sent to the Decan, 351. His jealousy of Dilere, 385. His designs to rebel, 386. Pursues Dilere, 387. Drops his designs, 388.
- Shaw Beg*, his unaccountable behaviour, 17. Defeats the Afgans, 36. Quells an insurrection, 50.
- Shaw Jehan*, 51. Success in the Decan, 52. Sent to quell the insurgents, 59. Suspected of assassinating Chusero, 63. Rebels, ibid. Assumes the imperial titles, 64. Attacks Agra to no effect, 65. Forms his camp at Feridabad, ibid. His demands on his father refused, ibid. Endeavours to excuse himself, 66. Is totally defeated, 69. His valour, 70. His party defeated in Guzerat, 71. Defeated at the Nirbidia, 72. Flies to Orissa, 73. Reduces Bengal, 74. and Bahar, ibid. Divides his army into three divisions, 75. Prepares for action, 76. Totally defeated, ibid. His bravery, 77. Flies to the Decan, 78. Besieges Brampour, ibid. His affairs ruined, 79. Is pardoned by his father, ibid. Prepares to rebel, 96. Informed of the death of his father, 108. Marches toward the capital, 109. Proclaimed emperor, 110. His titles, 114. Attention to business, 115. His great abilities, 116. Vigour of his government, 119. His clemency, 120. Enraged against Lodi, 122. Alarmed at his escape, 129. Prepares to invade the Decan, 130. Arrives and detaches armies into the enemy's country, 131. Resides at Brampour, 133. His vigilance, ibid. And magnificence, 134. Rewards Abdalla, 140. Remits the taxes, 141, to those who had suffered by a public calamity, 142. Returns to Agra, 143. Persecutes the Hindoos, 144. Enraged against the Portuguese, ibid. Sends Mohabet to the Decan, 148. Progress to Cashmire, 151. Returns to Agra, 154. Resolves to invade the Decan, 156. Leaves Agra, 157. Lays waste the enemy's country, 158. Reduces the Decan, ibid. Returns to Ajmere, 159. Makes peace with Persia, 163. A foe to oppression, 165. Punishes oppressive governors, 166. His excellent government, ibid. His justice, 173. Arrives at Agra, 178. Sends his son Morad against the Usbees, 185. Disgraces that prince for disobedience, 186. Returns to Labore, 190. Jealous of his sons, ibid. Resides at Delhi, 192. Makes Jumla viceroy, 205. Makes a tour to the north, 206. He falls sick, 211. Removed to Agra from Delhi, 212. Recovers, 213. His favour to Dara, 214. His great perplexity, 230. His charge to Dara, 232. His behaviour to him after his defeat, 240. Writes to him, 248. His letter intercepted, 249. His schemes to seize Aurungzebe, ibid. He is deceived and taken, 250. Offers the empire to Mahammed, 251. How he receives the news of Aurungzebe's having mounted the throne, 263. Reflections on his reign, 265. And character, 266. Rejects the proposals of Aurungzebe, 349. His fierce answer to his son, 350. His death, 364. Anecdotes of his private life, 365, 366.
- Shawriar*, appointed by will to succeed to the throne, 107. Defeated, 108.
- Shere Afkun*, 19. Marries Mher-ul-Nissa, 23. His spirit and high birth, 24. Fights and kills a tyger, 25. Defeats a design against his life, 26. Discomfits forty assassins, 27. He is murdered, 29.
- Sinka* (Amir) rebels, 39.
- Solimán*, the son of Dara, 221. Surprises and defeats Suja, 222. Deserted by his army, 271. Flies to Serinagur, 272. His flight, 337. He is taken and delivered up to Aurungzebe, 338. His behaviour in the presence of that prince, 339. Succession to the throne (the mode of), 113.
- Suja* (prince), presented to his father, 115. His age at his father's accession, 116. Sent to command under Mohabet, 149. Is recalled, 151. Promoted, 164. Made governor of Bengal, 165. Narrow escape, 166. Sent

I N D E X.

Sent to command in Cabul, 191. Returns to Bengal, 194. Pays his respects at court, 197. His character, 217. He takes the field, 220. Surprised and defeated by Solimân, 222. His preparations against Aurungzêbe, 279. On full march, 281. Fortifies himself, 282. His great resolution, 284. Defeated, 286. War against him, 316. His preparations, 317. Attacked in his lines, 318. Retreats, 319. Defeated near Tanda, 322. His suspicions, 324, and generous behaviour to Mahommed, 325. Driven from Bengal, 327. Takes refuge in Arracân, 328. His uncommon misfortunes, 329. Ordered to leave Arracân, 330. His resolution, bravery, misfortunes, and murder, 331. Deplorable fate of his family, 332.
Sujait, quells an insurrection in Bengal, 37.
 Slain by Mohâbet, 88.
Suria Banu (the princess), her mild and amiable character, 116.

1

Tartars, their ideas on government, 113.
Tirbiet, sent ambassâdor to Persia, 375. Ill received by Shaw Abas, 377. His return from Persia, 379.
Tuckt Tawos, the famous peacock throne, 155.

U

Uiser Bec slain, 90.
Usbecs, their irruption, 80. Their decline, 111. Civil commotions, 112. Invade India, 118. Repulsed, 119. Another irruption, 122. Embassy to them, 154. Incursions, 180. Defeated by the prince Morâd, 185. Their prince flies to Persia, 186. Overthrown by Aurungzêbe, 189. They submit, 190. Apply for aid, 195.

W

Walli, king of the Usbecs, slain, 112.
War, with the Usbecs, 184. On the coast of Malabâr, 342. In Bijapour, 385.

Z

Ziffer Jung seizes Morâd, 256.
Zimân, the son of Mohâbet, joins his father, 117. Commands the army, 143. Death, 159.
Zingii, the Usbec, invades India, 122.

END OF THE THIRD VOLUME.

